

7.01.02

Grading Rubric

RCLS 201: Recreation and Leisure in Modern Society

“Stand Your Ground” Assignment

(50 points)

0-25 points	Student completed the assignment, but the paper is shallow; might primarily describe vague concepts without including personal reflections; nothing clearly relates to issues and ideas from class.
26-35 points	Student's discussion is primarily descriptive; reflections are on target but poorly articulated; the paper does not examine or analyze key issues using ideas and terms from class; the paper might be weakened by poor composition
36-45 points	Student's discussion adequately uses terms and ideas from class; paper tends to be overly descriptive or emphasizes obvious issues relevant to the industry rather than deeper insights; good ideas might be weakened by loose or unstructured writing style or lack of personal reflections
46-50 points	Student's reflections go deeper than description and demonstrate insight into relevance and importance of RCLS as it relates to society; paper is strongly written, includes thoughtful personal reflections and in-depth engagement with course material.
